

The Funny Pages - Steve Kelley

December 16, 2012

by Pat Rogers

Steve Kelley takes a two-prong approach when considering subjects for his editorial cartoons: they feature politics or “stuff people actually care about,” Kelley said, according to townhall.com. With over two decades creating cartoons seen across America, it’s a system that’s working for the award-winning cartoonist.

When not creating commentary on paper, Kelley keeps the laughs going as a stand-up comic, public speaker and humorist. This includes no fewer than seven appearances on The Tonight Show, according to townhall.com.

Kelley made his editorial cartooning home for 10 years at The Times-Picayune in New Orleans until September 2012, when daily newspaper reduced its print edition to three times a week.

Kelley co-created the syndicated daily comic strip “Dustin” with editorial cartoonist Jeff Parker. Dustin won the 2010 National Cartoonists Society’s Reuben Award for Best Newspaper Comic Strip.

Since its January 2010 launch, Dustin has been published in around about 320 papers, according to The Washington Post. The strip has been published by The Washington Post, The New York Times, USA Today, Time, Newsweek, and U.S. News & World Report.
