CNN reported: "Few artists so completely dominate their field that their name becomes synonymous with the subject matter, but Lynn Matsuoka...succeeded in capturing the essence of Sumo and has won a loyal following...."

Lynn Matsuoka is known worldwide for her reportage drawing of the Japanese Kabuki and Sumo worlds and as a color commentator for 15 years on the world-wide television coverage of the tournaments. In Hawaii, Matsuoka won awards for her paintings and drawings of Hula, witnessed behind the scenes. Her work has also been seen through illustrating some of the highest profile courtroom events in the United States.

Now living in The Hamptons, Matsuoka has turned her attention to fine art portraits, equestrian (polo and jumping subjects) and, most recently, soaring birds as part of the spectrum of artwork interests. Her Bridgehampton studio is now open for studio visits by appointment, just in time for holiday gift giving.

“Rock Star” by Lynn Matsuoka. Montage oil portrait on archival paper, 14 x 17 inches. $10,000. Portraits in this style can be commissioned. Done from life or photos.

Matsuoka’s paintings and drawings provide an empathetic insight into worlds she covers, and, as her subjects often comment, into the portraits she paints.

Matsuoka’s eclectic interests have her documenting the Broadway theater, Major league Baseball, NFL, Hollywood movie productions, symphony orchestras and the top ballet companies, among many subjects. Her artwork has been published everywhere.

Her first love is reportage drawing and has a knack of artistically capturing people performing sports, in the throes of theater and dance, and action in any genre. Her portraits are the natural derivation and commissions are welcome.

Visit the studio to see what we have! Visitors will receive a personal tour of the artwork. The artist will be available for consultation for personal custom portraits and pieces capture subjects in mid-motion.
