

Art Events Not To Miss During Armory Art Week

March 3, 2015

by Pat Rogers

Armory Art Week is designed to put a special focus on the arts during the first week in March. Taking center stage is The Armory Show and the 13 or so satellite art fairs converging on New York City. (Click here to read our Armory Week Art Fair Guide). Meanwhile, the art fairs aren't the only places to find art and crowds. Check out our picks of art events that keep the art excitement going outside of the art fair scene and give Armory Art Week some extra art zing.

HEARTBEAT BY STEREOTANK

Times Square Arts

Duffy Square, Times Square, NYC

Visit Duffy Square to see HeartBeat, an installation by Brooklyn-based design studio Stereotank. Selected as the 2015 Times Square Valentine Heart, this engagement sculpture consists of a massive heart glowing to the rhythm of a strong, deep and low frequency heartbeat sound and visitors are encouraged to move around and engage with it by playing various percussion instruments. The audience is invited to come together and creatively play, listen, dance and feel the vibrations of the heart while enjoying the warm pulsating light.

For the first week of March, Stereotank transforms Heartbeat into innovative public seating complementing the infamous TKTS red steps. Seating open for the first week of March only. Created in partnership with The Architectural League of New York and the Times Square Alliance.

RACHEL MASON: THE LIVES OF HAMILTON FISH

Art in General at ROOT Studios

ROOT Studios, 443 West 18th Street, NYC

A cinematic performance based on figures who lived in New York State during the Great Depression. A serial killer and a statesman—both named Hamilton Fish—die one day apart.

Hamilton Fish II is a descendant of one of the most prominent families on the east coast, and Hamilton "Albert" Fish is a psychopath and notorious murderer. A newspaper editor, played by Mason in drag, becomes obsessed with this coincidence after publishing their simultaneous obituaries on his front page. Through original songs performed live, a surreal tale unfolds where supernatural events and historic facts merge in a wild, musical journey.

March 6: 7 - 9 p.m.

Additional Performance: March 7th: 7 - 9 p.m. RSVP to lindsey@artingeneral.org.

PSYCHLOTRON

Whitebox Art Center

Whitebox Art Center, 329 Broome Street #1, NYC

Whitebox Art Center and curator Lara Pan are presenting the interdisciplinary art and performance event "PSYCHLOTRON" conceived by artist John Bonafede. Based in NYC, Psychlotron* is an .

Inspired by a term coined by Timothy Leary in the 1960s. Leary assimilated the term from the field of subatomic physics, in particular the spiral of magnets that align atoms before they are smashed together in a particle collider. That spiral of magnets is known as a cyclotron. The colliding particles in Leary's social experimentation are the humans present. The concept is that psyches "smash" together in a creative context wherein unknown outcomes arise in an autonomous space.

"PYSCHOLOTRON" brings forward the concept into what's bound to be an unusual and trippy art performance.

WALTER DE MARIA'S THE NEW YORK EARTH ROOM AND THE BROKEN KILOMETER

Dia Art Foundation

The New York Earth Room, 141 Wooster Street, New York
The Broken Kilometer, 393 West Broadway, NYC

Visit Walter De Maria's The New York Earth Room and The Broken Kilometer. In celebration of The Armory Show's Soho Night, The New York Earth Room and The Broken Kilometer will stay open until 7pm on March 7, 2014. Please note that the center will be closed from 3-3:30pm on Saturday.

The New York Earth Room, 1977, is an interior earth sculpture. It is the third and only existing Earth Room sculpture executed by the artist. The other two were installed in Germany in 1968 and 1974. The Broken Kilometer, 1979, is composed of 500 highly polished, round, solid brass rods, each measuring two meters in length and five centimeters in diameter. The 500 rods are placed in five parallel rows of 100 rods each. This work is the companion piece to De Maria's 1977 Vertical Earth Kilometer at Kassel, Germany.
