November 2, 2016

by Hamptons Art Hub Staff

While a few Long Island museums have closed for the season, there's still plenty of art to see. Museum exhibition highlights include the Parrish's "Artists Choose Artists" exhibition and the three photography exhibitions opening at the Nassau County Museum of Art. Don't miss the three exhibitions on view at Guild Hall, including a show of works by the artist couple Connie Fox and William King. Read on for the full list of exhibitions on view in Long Island art museums through November.

DAN FLAVIN ART INSTITUTE - BRIDGEHAMPTON, NY

"DAN FLAVIN: ICONS" continues through April 30, 2017. The five wall-mounted "icons" on view in the exhibition bridge the mediums of painting and sculpture. The box-like constructions with painted surfaces and attached light fixtures were created between 1961 and 1964.

ON PERMANENT VIEW is an installation by Dan Flavin (1933-1996) of nine works in fluorescent light made between 1963 and 1981. The exhibition follows Flavin's art practice from when he began to work solely with standard fluorescent fixtures and tubes to just before the presentation of his new art form was realized.

Dan Flavin Art Institute is located on Corwith Avenue, about 1/2 block from Main Street, Bridgehampton, NY 11932. The museum is open weekends from noon to 6 p.m. For details and programming, visit www.diaart.org.

"CONNIE FOX & WILLIAM KING: AN ARTIST COUPLE" continues through December 31, 2016. The married couple Connie Fox and William King (1925 - 2015) shared a life based in East Hampton. “MICHAEL KNIGIN: THE HOLOCAUST AND ANNE FRANK” continues through December 31, 2016. The show is Guest Curated by Joan Kraisky. In 1974 the Israel Museum and the Jerusalem Foundation invited noted artist Michael Knigin to Israel to establish the first professional lithographic and silk screen atelier in Israel. As work progressed, Knigin began meeting survivors of the Holocaust and began interpreting their stories through sketches that became montages. Knigin was then granted full access to the museum’s Holocaust archives, the contents of which further laid the foundations for his work. This process, along with visits to Anne Frank’s attic in Amsterdam, led him to the creation of over 150 Holocaust works.

“WILLIAM S. HEPPEHEIMER” continues through December 31, 2016. William S. Heppenheimer’s kaleidoscopic works play with our notions of abstraction and representation. His process involves pouring acrylic painting into ice trays and swirling it, creating a marbled effect. The dried paint is then cut and arranged into geometric forms. Heppenheimer was the Top Honors recipient of the Guild Hall Museum 76th Annual Artist Members Exhibition in 2014, an award selected by Robert Storr, Dean of the Yale School of Art.
