

“Art in the Vines” With Patricia Feiler at Borghese Vineyard and Winery

July 19, 2017

by Sponsors

Join Dan's Papers cover artist, Patricia Feiler, at Castello di Borghese Vineyard and Winery for the first of her “Art in the Vines” painting sessions July 23 at 2-5 p.m. Watch, converse with the artist, and witness her creative process as paintings unfold among the vines. The series is free and open to the public.

Patricia Feiler painting at Castello di Borghese Vineyard. Courtesy of Castello di Borghese Vineyard.

Courtesy of Castello di Borghese Vineyard.

Feiler’s new vineyard paintings will be created in conjunction with her current solo show, “Colors From the Air, ” on view in the Borghese Gallery through October 1. The show features richly textured views of the southwest painted during her annual winter sojourn alongside sun-drenched scenes on the North and South Forks.

Feiler states, “I’m fascinated by the daily, almost hourly, changes in the shapes, colors and shadows in the vineyard rows, all set against the dynamic North Fork skies. I sense that these vines have a story to tell, and I find new inspiration to paint here each time I set up my easel.”

“Sunrise Song” by Patricia Feiler. Photo by Gary Mamay. Courtesy of the artist.

Borghese Vineyard has the unique distinction of being the original Long Island vineyard , the fruits of the vision of Alex and Louisa Hargrave. In 1998, Ann Marie and Marco Borghese took over the vineyard and winery, proudly continuing the legacy of producing superb, sophisticated wines. The rich history of this vineyard is now being carried on by the creative energy of young Giovanni Borghese. Borghese comments about Feiler's art, "I was thrilled to speak with Patricia about featuring her show "Colors From the Air." One morning as she was painting, undisturbed, near the Rio Grande in Texas, I called with an invitation to show her work in our Gallery. Patricia's artistic eye for capturing the southwest as well as the raw emotion of sailing on the Peconic Bays reminds us that no matter what beauty she stumbles across in her travels, there is no place like home. "

"Serenity" by Patricia Feiler. Photo by Gary Mamay.
Courtesy of the artist.

"Wave Runners" by Patricia Feiler. Photo by Gary Mamay. Courtesy of the artist.

"Art In the Vines. With Patricia Feiler" No reservations required and art is for sale right from the easel. In addition, there will be music in the air provided by Jazz Duo, "Wishing on Stars" and Oysters available by Harvest Moon Oyster Company.

www.patriciafeiler.artspan.com

For information and dates for upcoming "Art in the Vines" sessions in August and September, visit www.castellodiborghese.com or call 631-734-5111.

Borghese Vineyard

17150 Route 48

Cutchogue, NY 11935

Courtesy of Castello di Borghese Vineyard.

Courtesy of Castello di Borghese Vineyard.

.

Copyright 2017 Hamptons Art Hub LLC. All rights reserved.