ART SPACE 98 proudly presents works by Swiss-born artist Thomas Bühler: a juxtaposition of three-dimensional mono-chrome canvasses and glowing vibrant oil paintings.

His oil paintings show strikingly energetic archaic shapes sending rays into a dark universe, reminding of the invisible aura of living beings. The three-dimensional mixed media canvasses show bold fragments of limbs: totem-like references to Homo Sapiens. He says about this group: "Void of movement we can perceive them as mummies of the past or modern hieroglyphs of the present."

These works are strongly influenced by the artist's passion for nature, and his frequent travels to the Sonoran Desert along Baja California, Mexico. "Being exposed over a long time to the fierce forces of wilderness I encountered the beauty and brutality of raw nature," says the artist.

After working as Expressive Therapist and painter in his native Switzerland, Bühler moved to New York City some 30 years ago and soon discovered Montauk, where he now does much of his art work. He studied art at the 'Art Students League', NYC; 'Instituto de Allende', San Miguel de Allende, Mexico; and with painter Francis Bott in Paris.

He exhibited in 'ART SPACE 98', East Hampton; 'Broome Street Gallery', NYC; 'Gallery Gora', Montreal; 'Office Gallery', NYC; 'The New World Art Center', NYC; 'Gallery Meyer, Zurich, Switzerland; as well as in various group shows in New York City and Switzerland.

His work is represented in Corporate and Private Collections in USA and Switzerland.
