

East End Gallery Scene - Events & Receptions Through November 4, 2018

October 29, 2018

by Hamptons Art Hub Staff

The East End art gallery scene is especially vibrant this weekend with new shows holding receptions and talks from Friday to Sunday in The Hamptons and on the North Fork. New shows including cutting edge contemporary, contemporary realism, photography, and paintings inspired by local areas. Check out what's opening this weekend in galleries located in The Hamptons and on the Eastern End of Long Island.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2

SOUTHAMPTON ARTS CENTER - "LIGHT OF THE OCEAN" has an Opening Reception on Friday, November 2, 2018 from 5 to 7 p.m. Southampton Arts Center is transformed into a site-specific installation by Francisco Alvarado-Juárez, a New York-based American artist born in Honduras. The artist is assisted by a team, including experts from Cornell Cooperative Extension Marine Program and community volunteers, to create an installation that conjures a marine environment that also stands in as a metaphor for the complexity of the human condition. The Southampton Arts Center is located at 25 Jobs Lane, Southampton, NY 11968. www.southamptonartscenter.org.

AMAGANSETT

VICTOR D'AMICO INSTITUTE OF ART (VDIA) at AMAGANSETT LIBRARY - "Promised Land Remembered" has an Opening Talk and Reception on Sunday, November 4, 2018 from 1 to 3 p.m. The exhibition revisits a similar one held earlier this year at the Art Barge, featuring early tempera on paper paintings by Mabel D'Amico from the 1939 to 1940s. The art and historical narratives recall the historic activity of the former fishing port and menhaden processing plant located off Cranberry Hole Road in Amagansett, NY, which also influenced the cultural and artist communities on the East End.

Talks at the reception will be offered by VDIA President Christopher Kohn, exhibition co-organizer Rachel Gruze and David Clarke, grandnephew of Smith Meal Co. fish factory founder Gilbert P. Smith. Memories of Promised Land are welcome in written or oral form. The Amagansett Library is located at 215 Main Street, Amagansett, NY 11930. The Talk is free with advance registration request by clicking here or calling 631-267-3172.
