

Top Things to Do in The Hamptons & North Fork Through June 9, 2019

June 6, 2019

by Hamptons Art Hub Staff

An Asian Cultural Festival, artists presentations paired with a chef's lunch and the pleasures of luscious gardens and landscapes are a few of this week's picks of the Top things to do this weekend in The Hamptons and East End. Also on tap are film, theater, live music with star-gazing and talks.

1. FINAL WEEKEND: Noël Coward's "Private Lives" Performed in Quogue

Hampton Theatre Company (HTC) completes its run of Noël Coward's "Private Lives" this week with final performances offered Thursday through Sunday. Presented at the Quogue Community Hall in Quogue, Coward's effervescent 1930s comedy "Private Lives" is considered to be his masterpiece. Performances are at 7 p.m. on Thursday and Friday; at 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Saturday; and 2:30 p.m. on Sunday.

"Private Lives" takes a side-splitting look at the volatile chemistry that can draw couples together or split them apart. Sparkling with wit and wisdom, the play opens with once-married Elyot and Amanda now honeymooning at the same hotel with their new spouses. When their paths cross, the old spark is reignited and the two impulsively run away to Paris, only to wonder a few days later whether love, jealousy or anger is the hotter passion.

Performances run through June 9, 2019. Tickets are $30 for Adults; $25 for seniors 65 years and older (excluding Saturday night performances); $20 for those under 35 years, theater industry members and veterans; and $10 for students under 21 years old. Group discounts are available. Click here to purchase.
